Hanoi Accuses U.S. Of Illegal Spy Flights

From News Dispatches

HANOI, Nov. 10 — In a statement timed to coincide with the start of Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger's visit to Peking, the North Vietnamese government charged today that American aircraft had made at least 10 spy flights over North Vietnam and asked all peoples of the world to help defend the Paris cease-fire agreement.

The United States denied the charge, which was first made by the Hanoi press and later detailed in a North Vietnamese Foreign Ministry statement distributed by Vietcong headquarters in Saigon.

Hanoi said that the spy flights, including some by the supersonic SR-71, successor to the U-2, were violations of the truce accords signed in Paris last January. It charged that there had been more than 10 such flights over North Vietnamese territory since June.

The statement on "the intensification of acts of war and grave violations of the Paris agreement by the United States and the Saigon administration," stressed the "devoted support" of the "just struggle of our brothers in Cambodia and Laos."
